Sponsorship Information:

The Pacific Division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (A federally designated non-profit organization) is seeking sponsorship support for its upcoming 101st annual meeting to be held on the campus of Southern Oregon University, June 14-18, 2022

About the meeting:

The American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS) is a highly multi- and interdisciplinary organization perhaps best known for its publication of the top-rated international Science Magazine (https://www.aaas.org). After a three year Covid Hiatus, the Pacific Division of AAAS will hold its 101st annual meeting at on the campus of Southern Oregon University from June 14-18, 2022. Scientifically, the meeting will feature a diverse mix of symposia and workshops contributed by scientists from around the world, but will also place special emphasis on the unique scientific, cultural and environmental features as well as challenges facing Southern Oregon, Northern California and the Pacific Northwest. There will, for example, be a special emphasis on the environmental and agricultural riches of this region as well as the local consequences of climate change. The meeting will also involve a number of local scientific and cultural organizations including for example the Oregon Shakespeare Festival.

The meeting will likely have between 200 – 400 registered users from outside the local area. In addition, a special effort is also being made to reach out to the general public in our local region.

Additional information about the meeting can be found online at aaaspd.org, or please send email to bowerj@sou.edu or call 541 – 499 - 7502
